Ryan's Journey

Inspiration for Persevering Toward a Goal

During the workshops today, Ryan Hamilton in Health and Fitness had something powerful to say to everyone. He confessed to your fellow delegates that he used to weigh over 300 pounds, and that he strived to change for the better. Losing over 100 pounds is no easy feat. Let that serve as an inspiration to you all. Even the toughest challenges in your lowest moments can be beaten. Don't let the struggle stop you. Carry on.

AMERICAN DEAD AFTER SUFFERING IN NORTH KOREA: COMPANY TAKES RESPONSIBILITY

While I'm sure everyone is enjoying their stay at Boys' State, all is not well in the wider world. Issues arise at home and abroad, and we want to take time to raise awareness on a new development: the death of Otto Warmbier.

Otto Warmbier was 22 years old when he passed away last week. In January of 2016, he was detained in North Korea because he was accused of stealing a propaganda poster. After 17 months, Warmbier was returned to his family in a coma so that he would not die in captivity.

The travel company that took Otto to North Korea is feeling the effects of this tragic death. The company, Young Pioneer Tours, has been chartering tourists through North Korea for years, and although other tourists traveling with them had been detained, the company says that they had not had any detainment in North Korea end with such "tragic finality" (NPR). As a result of the recent death, Young Pioneer Tours will no longer be taking tours through North Korea, and have changed the description of how safe they believe the city is. This was a grievous loss, and I am glad that Young Pioneer Tours has decided to remove themselves from North Korea.

This development has sparked debate in the United States regarding actions taken against North Korea. But despite the tensions, let us take a moment to remember this tragedy and sympathize with the loved ones who lost someone dear to them.

Saved by the Coin

Today is the second day of Quiz bowl. The winners are Jaytown, Las Craigas, and Howard. The battle between Howard and Anderson was especially notable as a really close battle. It was back and forth the whole time. The two teams tied at 18 so the councils decided to have a coin toss. Howard choose heads and they won.

A Poem to Appreciate in These Hectic Times*

The sun rises in the eastern sky,
The land comes to life,
People awaken in the hall called Nye,
All is peaceful, there is no strife

The Rule of Law

At court cases tonight, Nevada Boy States students are engaged in a case involving plaintiff Patricia Portnoy versus appellant Principal Skinner and the Silver State School Board.

At court cases tonight, Nevada Boy State students are engaged in a case involving plaintiff Patricia Portnoy versus appellant Principal Skinner and the Silver State School Board. Patricia Portnoy was demoted of her position of chair of math department due to her opposition of the state board's new math curriculum. Portnoy with her decades of math experience, however, argues that she has her first amendment right to say what her opinion is. The state board argues that her comments had inflammatory and malicious intent in response to their defense. The district attorney and assistant district attorney of each city appeared in front of their judges as either representing the plaintiff or appellant. Then, they proceeded to make five minute speeches arguing either in protection or to argue against Portnoy. The speeches' info were then questioned by the judges listening to the speeches.

What Does a Commander and A Lobbyist Have in Common?

They make Nevada Boys' State all the better!

The staff at the newspaper would like to thank Commander Charles E. Schmidt of the American Legion (left) and Paul Enos (right) for taking time to come join all of us delegates at Nevada Boys' State. Both men were wonderful in contributing to us delegates some excellent advice, wisdom, and knowledge that, regardless of opinions, we can all learn from. Mr. Schmidt spoke first, reminding us of the sacrifice of American veterans and the struggles they face off at war and, unfortunately, at home when they return. We all learned more about the American Legion and the love of country that we as American citizens should have. We thank Mr. Schmidt for his service and his time. In addition, Paul Inos informed us all of the world of lobbyists, the paths we can take in life, and some insights into the world of politics and special interests. We thank Mr. Inos for the time he took to expand the world views of all of us.
